UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff-Appellee,

versus

DEXTER BROWN,

Defendant-Appellant.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Texas
USDC No. 6:95-CR-4-1
- - - - -

June 13, 1996

Before HIGGINBOTHAM, DUHÉ, and EMILIO M. GARZA, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM:*

Dexter Brown appeals from the denial of his motion to suppress. He argues that the district court erred by refusing to suppress crack cocaine discovered in his vehicle, in a bag inside his passenger's purse, during a traffic stop. He contends that neither the initial traffic stop nor the subsequent prolonged detention were reasonable under the Fourth Amendment. He also challenges the warrantless search of his passenger's purse. The government does not question Brown's standing to challenge the search of his passenger's purse, and thereby waives what would appear to be a determinative issue.

We have reviewed the record and find no reversible error. See Ornelas v. United States, ___ U.S. ___, 1996 WL 276414 (U.S. May 28, 1996). Accordingly, we AFFIRM the judgment for essentially the reasons given by the district court.

AFFIRMED.
